

Heber Valley Quilters Newsletter October 2021

Hi everyone!

I can't believe we are almost to October! Come prepared to discuss the officer roles for 2022.

For the challenge quilts, these will now be due in December. If you haven't started yet, you now have a few more months!

For the sew and tell challenge, I want to see the favorite quilt you always grab. The one that gets fought over for movie night. Let's see them!

See you in October!

Ali

Utah Quilt Guild News

Just reporting that Quilt Fest went well and was attended by many. Quilts made by members of the Heber Quilt Guild and entered at Quilt Fest were made by Michele Murdock, Jane Leaphart, Barb Murdock, Lara Wilson and Kaye Dawn Epps. The Best of Show went to Karin Crawford, from Utah County. There are two different levels that people could enter in, those who have won awards before and those who have not. Lara Wilson, who had never won an award before, won first place for her quilt of her dog Cooper and second place in the pieced category for her row by row quilt.

Barb Murdock and Bonnie Crysdale won first place in the Art Auction Baskets, winning a check for $75.00 for their wheelbarrow basket.

The Heber Guild auction basket was put together by Deonn Stott. Even though it did not arrive till Saturday morning, it still received several bids and it brought in about $70.00. I was not there when the final bidding ended at noon. Big thanks to all who attended and helped in any way.

We do hope that more of you will be able to attend Quilt Fest next year. It will be held in Ogden, at the David Eccles Conference Center, October 19-22. The theme is "Sew'd to Joy". Think about making a quilt that music inspires you to make. The national teachers are: Beth Helfter and Kathy Kansier.

PS. It might be fun to have them bring their quilts back so that we can all remember them. I loved Kaye Dawn's quilt with the trees and birds on it. I entered two, Michele two, Kaye Dawn two, Lara two, and you one. Davidene had quilts in the show also, but she is only a member of the Midway guild.
